

LITERARY NOTES.

The "Judith Shakespeare" who is the heroine of Mr. William Black's forthcoming story, is represented as the poet's daughter. The first instalment will be printed not in January but in February.

A volume of poems by Mr. Maurice Thompson, the Indiana poet, is coming from the press of J. R. Osgood & Co. The same firm will publish this month Mr. H. C. Bauer's new novel, "A Woman of Honor."

"How to Help the Poor," is the title of a little volume which has been written by the widow of James T. Fields, and will be published by Houghton, Mifflin & Co.

The novel lately published by T. B. Peterson & Brothers, entitled "Those Pretty St. George Girls," has gone into a fifth edition.

Mrs. Julia Anagnos, one of the daughters of Julius Ward Howe, proposes to publish soon through Cupples, Upham & Co. a volume of poems under the name of "Stray Chords."

The November number of "Harper's Magazine" will contain an article by Mr. Montgomery Schuyler on "The Metropolitan Opera House."

Mr. Charles Nordhoff has written a religious book which the Harper will publish. It is to bear the title of "God and the Future Life: The Reasonableness of Christianity."

The first volume of Houghton, Mifflin & Co.'s new series, "American Commonwealths," will appear this month. It deals with Virginia and the work of Mr. John Esten Cooke. Pennsylvania will be treated by Mr. Wayne MacVeagh; Oregon by the Rev. Dr. William Barrows; South Carolina by the Hon. William H. Trescot; formerly Assistant Secretary of State; Maryland by William Hand Browne, Associate of Johns Hopkins University; and Kentucky by Professor N. S. Shaler, of Harvard University.

Eleven thousand dollars is the sum reported to have been spent upon the forthcoming catalogue of the Art Gallery of the New-England Exposition. The volume contains sixty-three illustrations, nine teen of which are etchings.

The November number of "The Atlantic" will contain an essay by Mr. Emerson on "Dr. Ezra Lever," and the December number one on "Mary Moody Emerson." Houghton, Mifflin & Co. are bringing out a new edition of Emerson's works which will include two new volumes of essays, lectures and speeches. The whole edition will be published before the holidays. It will present a new etched portrait of Emerson.

J. R. Osgood & Co. will publish in November a volume of sketches entitled "A Little Girl Among the Old Masters." It will have an introduction and comment by W. D. Howells.
